

Marcin Jakubczyk
Wydział Filologiczny
Uniwersytet Jagielloński
ul. Gołębia 24, Kraków
tel.: 12 663 11 58
e-mail: marcin.jakubczyk@uj.edu.pl
Poland

PF 2014 (LXV): 161–172

O odnalezionym budapeszteńskim fragmencie {Słownika} z 1532 roku

A lost piece of "Dictionarius seu nomenclatura..." (1532) recovered

Słowa kluczowe: leksykografia w XVI wieku; "Słownik"; "Utilissimus vocabularius"; historia języka polskiego

Keywords: the 16th-century lexicography; "Słownik"; "Utilissimus vocabularius"; history of the Polish language

Summary

The article discusses the recently discovered piece of "Dictionarius seu nomenclatura [...]", a Latin, Italian, Polish and German dictionary of the 16th century. This dictionary, published in Cracow in 1532, is called "Słownik" in Poland. The European lexicographical source of this dictionary is "Utilissimus vocabularius," released in 1510 in Rome. The Appendix to this article contains the whole passage of "Dictionarius seu nomenclatura," discovered in Országos Széchényi Könyvtár in Budapest.